World Famous Actress Is Dead After Illness of About Four Months

BULLETIN

PARIS, March 26.—Madame Sarah Bernhardt, the world's most famous actress, died at her Paris home tonight after an illness of about four months. Death was due to uraemic poisoning complicated by heart weakness.

Her death occurred at five minutes of 7 o'clock. She was 78 years.

At 1:30 o'clock Dr. Prevost, chief of the half dozen specialists, administered hypodermic injection after which Mme. Bernhardt sank into a troubled sleep.

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service

PARIS, March 26.—The last sacrament was administered to Madame Sarah Bernhardt at 3 o'clock this afternoon after the attending physicians had given up hope that she could live through the day. Her death was expected momentarily. She had already suffered relapses during the early afternoon and failed to rally. Mme. Bernhardt did not speak a word. She appeared to be deprived of consciousness.

Doctor Marot told International News Service at 5 o'clock that two injections of morphine had been administered and that Madame was sleeping. He said there was a bare chance that she might hold out until morning.

In Serious Condition

PARIS, March 26.—Madame Sarah Bernhardt, who is critically ill, suffered a sinking spell at noon today. Two physicians were hastily summoned and injected camphorated oil to strengthen the heart action. They said Madame Bernhardt was "very feeble."

"Madame Bernhardt's condition is very serious," said Dr. Labbe, one of the specialists, in a statement to International News Service at noon. "There is very little hope at the present time. I cannot say anything beyond that."

"Madame Bernhardt passed a restless night," her secretary told International News Service at 9 o'clock. Her general condition is about the same, although it is not at all satisfactory.

Only the indomitable will of the famous actress has kept the slender thread of life from snapping. After a small cup of weak broth had been fed to her she brightened and remarked upon the lovely weather. It was a warm spring day and bright sunshine came flooding through the window.

PUBLIC LIBRARY TO OPEN BRANCH

Varied Program Will Mark Ceremony at Grand View School Tonight

The official opening of the northwest branch of the public library at 8 o'clock tonight, in the Grand View school house, Justin and Roberta avenues, promises to be a very significant occasion in the history of this section of the city, according to Alexander Mitchell, president of the Foothill Improvement association.

Among the prominent speakers on the program are Mayor Spencer Robinson, City School Superintendent Richardson D. White, Guy Finney, P. J. Wheldon, Mr. Spencer, Mrs. Danford, librarian, together with representatives from the school board, the city council, city manager's office, and other civic organizations.

Refreshments will be served by the Foothill Improvement association, the Grand View Parent-Teacher association and residents of the district.

A cordial invitation to attend this official opening of the new library is extended to the citizens of Glendale by the library board, the Foothill Improvement association, the Grand View Parent-Teacher association and other organizations responsible for this fine institution.

Coombs Resolution
Passes in Assembly

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—The much discussed Coombs resolution seeking to have Congress bar all Asiatics from becoming citizens of this country, under any circumstances, was today passed by the assembly after a short but hot debate.

When Two Great Stars Were Young

This picture was taken in New York in 1887. It shows Lily Langtry (left) and Sarah Bernhardt. The great French actress was then but 42 years of age. Madame Bernhardt looked then—as she looked in her latest picture—a very young woman.

Bernhardt's Power Was In Her Voice

SARAH BERNHARDT'S voice was the secret of her power. It was long regarded the most remarkable ever heard on the stage; it has moved nations to tears and smiles, whether her audience knew her language or not.

"Divine Sarah," as she was known, was an officer of the French Academy. She made her debut at seventeen in 1862, in the Theatre Francaise, in the role of Iphigenia. Accustomed to fortune all her life, she has spent the last days of her long life in comparative poverty.

Her first success was in 1866, at the famous theatre, Porte Saint Martin, followed by an engagement at the Odeon, where she was paid 5000 francs for the season.

During the siege of Paris she worked tirelessly among the wounded, as a member of the ambulance unit. From that time her success soon became a world recognition.

Her first foreign engagement was in England in 1879, where she was coldly received, at the beginning, finally winning complete success in His Majesty's theatre. A short time later she visited the United States. Her only great failure was in 1880, starring in the "Adventurer," when she quit the cast and Paris for a time.

She married Jacques Damaia, who played with her, in 1882. Then she took over two theatres, one for her son, Maurice. In 1915 her leg was amputated. She continued on the stage with a wooden limb. On her visit to New York, in 1917, she nearly succumbed to a serious illness, recovering and returning to France.

Mme. Bernhardt was also a sculptor and painter, in both of which arts she has made notable successes.

Hurry Plans To Take U. S.
Out Of Shipping Business

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Comprehensive plans for getting the government out of the shipping business—based upon the immediate sale to private interests of the ships now being operated at an annual loss of $50,000,000—were handed to the United States shipping board today by the American Steamship Owners Association.

Steamship owners and operators were asked to submit plans to the shipping board for the disposal of the American fleet, following the failure of the ship subsidy bill in congress.

Chairman A. D. Lasker, of the shipping board, is hurrying back to Washington from St. Augustine, Fla., to approve the various plans for submission to President Harding.

Declaring that experience has demonstrated that an American merchant marine in foreign trade can not be built up through government operation, the report recommended that the board offer for sale to American citizens without any reservations and without any discrimination between buyers of all its vessels.

The report declares that failure to provide national aid "places a most serious aspect on the entire situation with respect to American shipping in foreign trade, and makes the problem one which can be solved, if at all, only after a more extended investigation than is possible before the 26th of March (the time limit set in the query sent out by the shipping board)."

The report recommends that the board should immediately scrap such vessels as are inferior in design, equipment or condition, but does advocate the continuance of a few freight, passenger and mail services now maintained by government vessels. Continuance of these services is regarded as essential to the national interests. In the case of these vessels, the report urges they be placed in the hands of private owners under an operating arrangement until buyers can be found or the impossibility of profitable operation be definitely established.

Harding's Candidacy Well Received, His Aids Declare

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—Political advisers of the president are greatly pleased by the reaction to the announcement of the Harding candidacy in 1924, it was learned here today.

Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty, who made the announcement at Miami a week ago, has advised the president of the receipt of a "flood of congratulatory messages from party leaders in all parts of the country."

Some of the most prominent counselors in the party have wired that "the country was waiting for it" and that the announcement at this time would give a much-needed clarification of the political atmosphere.

This view is almost, taken by members of the president's immediate party. They said today it had served to check, if not to stop altogether, much of the "quiet grooming" of various other candidates that had been in progress ever since rumors became current that Mr. Harding would not be a candidate.

Attorney-General Daugherty probably will come to St. Augustine tomorrow or Wednesday to spend the remainder of his convalescent period and to talk over with the president the effect of his political announcement at Miami.

Mr. Harding himself is giving little thought to anything but his vacation, although since his arrival in St. Augustine and over the week-end, he managed to get "caught up" on news and events that transpired during his three weeks' isolation on his houseboat cruise. During a quiet Sunday the president did considerable reading.

Mr. Harding planned to play 36 holes of golf today, doubling his usual round.

If eggs this size were served for breakfast, they would have to be purchased by the gross, states the owner, as a dozen or two would be required to fill the average egg-cup to the customary level.

District Deputy and Staff
Come to Local Lodge On Inspection Tour

Tonight's meeting of the Glendale Elks, at their clubhouse on East Colorado street, is the occasion of the annual official visit of the district deputy and his staff, from Pomona.

Dr. Frank V. Cason, who at present holds this high position in the Order, has signalled to Secretary Willis M. Kimball of the local lodge his intention of bringing with him to tonight's meeting four past officers from the Pomona lodge.

Dr. Cason will arrive in Glendale with his deputies late this afternoon, and will confer with Secretary Kimball at the clubhouse at 5 o'clock.

At 6:15 o'clock it is planned by the officers of the local Elks to entertain Dr. Cason and his staff at dinner at the Harriet Mae tea rooms, Harvard and Maryland.

Prepare Program

Following this the party will return to the clubhouse, where starting at 8 o'clock inspection, installation of nine new members and the presentation of a fine program will be the order of events.

The program, which will be musical in nature, will be featured by a Chinese orchestra from Los Angeles.

Secretary Kimball announces that the open dance held Saturday night in the clubhouse will be the last such occasion of the season; subsequent spring and summer dances being for members and their families only.

Monday, April 2, announced as installation of the new Elk officers, will be a big night for the Glendale Elks.

Army Physician Faces
Dancer's Death Charge

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 26.—Dr. Lewis L. Jacobs, dashing young army physician, went on trial here this morning in the superior court of Judge Spencer M. Marsh for the murder of Miss Fritzke Mann, beautiful interpreter of Oriental dances.

A bitter fight is expected to be waged in the trial. Paul Schenck, prominent Los Angeles attorney, and James E. Wadham and Clifford K. Fitzgerald of San Diego will compose counsel for the defense, while District Attorney Chester Kempey and his chief assistant, Guy Selbeck, will conduct the prosecution. The two prosecutors recently took office and are said to be anxious to secure a conviction in this, their first important case.

The selection of a jury will require at least two or three days, it was believed.

Dr. Jacobs has been held in jail without bail for nearly two months since his indictment by the grand jury, following a long and sensational investigation of the death of the pretty and popular 20-year-old dancer.

Arrest Near in Probe Of Model's Murder

NEW YORK, March 26.—Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora, conducting the investigation into the killing of beautiful Dorothy Keenan King, admitted this afternoon the police now have under surveillance a man suspected of causing her death while trying to force her either to write a blackmailing letter or else give him letters for blackmailing purposes.

Arrest of this man is expected soon. He is a certain black-mail was involved and that the girl was given an overdose of chloroform by the persons or person who attempted to use her as a tool.

Heiress of J. W. Gates To Wed at Pasadena

PASADENA, Cal., March 26.—Delora Angell, heiress to the $40,000,000 estate of "Bet You a Million" John W. Gates, will probably be married here this week, according to R. F. Angell, her father, today.

Lester Norris, Chicago newspaper cartoonist and son of a St. Charles, Ill., undertaker, is to be her husband. Young Norris arrived here last week, ostensibly on a short visit to his fiancée.

FIND BOOZE ON BOAT

KEY WEST, Fla., March 26.—Towed into this port against the will of her captain, the Cuban steamship Monte Tennotte was searched here today and, according to federal authorities, 2100 cases of whiskey were found in her hold.

Ice Gorges Again
Threaten Lowlands
With Flood Water

ONAWA, Iowa, March 26.—Huge ice gorges in the Missouri river, jarred loose at Sioux City and Sergeant Bluff, again have lodged below this city, threatening the lowlands with flood.

Ice is backed up for eight miles and the river here has risen twelve feet in the past twenty-four hours.

Some of the farm country in the bottom lands is under water. Ranchers are moving their families and stock to higher ground.

An aviator is due here this afternoon from Sioux City to bomb the gorge.

SUGAR PROBE

PRESIDENT

Harding Urges Department Of Justice To Secure Evidence Quickly

By W. H. ATKINS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The government's investigation of high sugar prices, ordered by President Harding, was speeded up today when the department of justice instructed United States District Attorney Haywood at New York to gather evidence against alleged sugar speculators for presentation to federal grand juries.

The New York phase of the sugar probe is the most vital part of the campaign of Acting Attorney General Seymour to determine if a "criminal conspiracy" is responsible for recent price increases.

Plans Speedy Exposure

Bringing their best legal talent into action, officials of the department of justice plan rapid accumulation of evidence and speedy exposure of the alleged manipulators now blamed for present "fictitious prices."

The government's inquiry is to be broad in view of reports of a plot to force sugar up to twenty cents, if possible, before summer.

Searching inquiry into the books of some of the suspected brokerage firms is under way. Orders also have been issued to ascertain the alleged connection of certain of the sugar refiners with sugar plantations in Cuba. Some who direct the large refineries, also are listed as owners of the Cuban plantations.

Harding Will Settle
Navy Gun Controversy

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Official confirmation was given at the state department today to an exclusive International News Service dispatch of Saturday announcing that President Harding would be the final arbiter in the controversy between Secretary of State Hughes and Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt over the elevation of guns on American capital ships.

Until the president returns from Florida, officials said the controversy aroused by the interpretation of the Washington naval treaty will remain in "status quo."

Deny Report of Break In Pickford Menage

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—Emphatic denial of reports from Boston that Jack Pickford and his bride of a few months, Marilyn Miller, star of "Sally," had "broken," were made here today by Mark Larkin, business representative for Pickford, who could not be reached.

"It is preposterous," said Larkin. "They are just as much in love now as the day they were married here at Doug and Mary's home. Tony still talk with each other by long distance telephone from Chicago, where Miss Miller is starring. I am confident they have had no misunderstandings."

Officer Takes Armed Bandits in Gun Fight

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—Two armed bandits were captured today at Broad and Chestnut streets, the very center of the city, after a desperate gun duel with Policemen Faulkner, who discovered them as they fled from a cigar store, after looting it and leaving the clerk bound and gagged.

Victim of Collision Treated At Hospital After Accident

Mercury, the god of the automobile, caused a number of collisions over the week-end in Glendale.

Mrs. Betty Armstrong of 427 East Elk street was badly shaken up and taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital with bruises last night about 6:45 o'clock. While crossing Colorado street, she was struck by an automobile driven by David Donwell of 123 North Glendale avenue, who reported that the traffic was quite thick.

Struck By Motor Car

One grade crossing accident was reported to the police department. It occurred at the Gardena crossing of the Pacific Electric R. M. Taggart of 903 North Ardmore street, Los Angeles, who was the driver of the automobile, said:

"I waited for a south-bound train to leave the crossing and drew up on the track behind it and was so close to it that I didn't see the north-bound train and was struck. Some steps were pulled off the train and the automobile was considerably damaged about the front end. No one was hurt."

An automobile belonging to Fred H. Wehn of Long Beach was parked on Lomita avenue between Belmont and Everett streets about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A machine piloted by P. E. Eggleston of Los Angeles, backed into it.

John M. Smalley of 624 Lime avenue was driving south of Brand boulevard about 12:30 yesterday noon. As he was turning west on Broadway, the left rear fender of his machine was struck by an automobile driven by L. D. Brooks of Los Angeles.

An automobile belonging to Francis Morton of 421 West Cypress street was slightly injured about 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon while parked in front of his house. It was struck by a machine loaded with Mexicans. The driver wrote Mr. Morton a check to cover the damage.

Officer In Crash

The rear wheel of a bicycle ridden by Pat Meehan of 271 Patterson avenue was smashed about 11 o'clock this morning by an automobile driven by Ray Frost of 121 1/2 South Louise street. The collision occurred on Central avenue near the intersection of Wilson avenue.

Motorcycle Officer I. F. LaRock escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when an automobile driven by Emil Fram of 348 West Windsor road got in his way on North Brand boulevard between Wilson and California avenue as he was chasing a speeder. He was thrown from his machine and bruised his right elbow as well as tearing his uniform.

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—One man is dead, two others are in a dying condition and several more were injured early today in a free-for-all brawl on Broadway between Second and Third streets, when Jackson Smith, a police chauffeur, with two friends, William Nardoni and Dominic Morosco, were accosted by three men, who claimed the Smith party had insulted them.

Smith and his friends denied the charge, the police say, and a general fight ensued, in which Smith was knocked to the ground. As he fell his revolver dropped to the sidewalk, discharging, and the bullet struck Robert Bell, who was passing in a street car. Bell died before reaching the receiving hospital, three blocks away.

The shooting of Bell did not halt the melee and several other passersby, according to the police, joined in the battle.

After police stopped the fight Smith was found to be suffering from blows about the head and knife wounds that may prove fatal, and his two friends, Nardoni and Morosco, who were also badly beaten, are said to be in a dying condition. Several of the men who participated in the fight were badly hurt.

The three men who are said to have started the trouble were found to have escaped while the fight was at its height. A police search was started immediately for them.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Four persons were killed and possibly two fatally hurt, and scores of others had narrow escapes from death when flames swept through the two top floors of the seven-story apartment house at 322-324 West Fifty-seventh street today.

The death list was raised to four this afternoon when the body of a man, thought to be E. J. Lind, was found. The other three dead were women.

Tragic Scenes
NEW YORK, March 26.—Three persons are known to be dead, one is dying and six others are missing as a result of a fire which swept through the upper floors of the fashionable apartment at 322-324 West Fifty-seventh street early today.

Police said they had little hope that any of the six missing persons were alive and that the death list probably would reach nine. One of the dead was identified as Miss Bessie Fries, companion of the wife of John M. Callahan, who owned the building. The second victim was Emily Lee, 35.

Falls Six Stories
Mrs. Bessie Lee had a miraculous escape from death. Trapped on the sixth floor, she crawled through a window and clung to the sill until her strength gave way and she dropped to the street. It was at first reported she had been killed, but doctors found she was still living. She was removed to a hospital, where it was said she probably would die.

There were 100 families living in the building. When the blaze was discovered on one of the upper floors it spread with great rapidity and clouds of black smoke were rolling through the hallways and billowing from windows. Tenants began rushing from the building while screams of fright filled the air.

A. P. Mascu of Fresno was the week-end guest of his daughter, Mrs. C. L. Thedaker, 333 El Bonita street. Mrs. Thedaker and two daughters, Dorothy and Betty Lee, will accompany Mr. Mason on the return trip and spend part of the Easter vacation in Fresno.

Dr. Zora Painter Morris, wife of Dr. Wade H. Morris of Eagle Rock, who has been dangerously ill at the Glendale Research Hospital for the past several weeks, has undergone a material improvement during the past few days and is expected to recover within the next month. Friends are not yet permitted to visit the sick room.

Mrs. Emma Walton and son L.
C. Walton, of Watersford, California, arrived Sunday to spend Easter week with Mrs. Walton's brother, Hal Davenport and family. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs.
Davenport, accompanied by their guests, and Mrs. B. J. Lunn, Mrs.
Davenport's mother, joined Mr. and Mrs. J. Walton and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walton in a motor trip to Pt. Firmin, where the party had luncheon. The trip home was made by way of Long Beach.

Mrs. F. E. Logie of 115 North Everett street is enjoying a visit from her girlhood friend, Mrs.
Clara Clark and daughter, Miss Marjorie Clark of Berkeley. Mrs.
Clark will spend a month in Glendale, while her daughter, who is assistant superintendent of arts and crafts in schools in Santa Clara county, will return north the latter part of the week. Mrs.
Logie entertained her guests yesterday with a motor trip around Glendale and they were greatly surprised and pleased with the growth of Glendale.

SOCIAL EVENT

Church Wedding

The romantic Church of the Angels at Annadale furnished the beautiful setting for a spring wedding Saturday afternoon, March 24, 1923, when Miss Mary Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
A. L. Hudson of 523 North Jackson street, became the bride of Allan MacKenzie of 721 South Brand boulevard. Rev. Roy Thompson, rector of the church, read the marriage service at 2 o'clock before a company of seventy-five relatives and friends.

Following the wedding the bridal party and guests motored to Glendale for a reception at the home of Mrs. Walter D. Purviance at 522 North Jackson street.

At the hour of the service at the church the organist played the Lohengrin wedding march. The first members of the bridal party to enter were the two ushers Gordon Clayton and Mr. Phillips. They were followed by Miss Dorothy Hague, maid of honor, and Miss Evelyn Williams, best woman. Miss Hague was gowned in apricot taffeta, with large picture hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of Gold of Ophir roses. Miss Williams wore pale green taffeta, with picture hat in harmonizing shades.
Her bouquet was of pale pink roses.

Lottie Hudson, sister of the bride, was the ring bearer. She wore a white organdie dress and carried the ring on a white satin pillow. She preceded the bride and her father.

Miss Hudson's bridal gown was of white silk tulle with lace over white satin. Her veil was caught by a bandeau of pearls and orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and fern.

Arthur MacKenzie attended his brother's wedding. He was gowned in dark blue satin, and at the reception at the Purviance home she was assisted by Mesdames Purviance, A. H. Schoof and H.
T. Scott. Mrs. Scott is her sister, who is visiting in Glendale from Portland, Oregon.

During the serving of the bridal luncheon the bride cut the cake and upon her departure threw her bouquet, which was caught by Miss Evelyn Williams.

Late in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie left for a trip and upon their return they will reside on North Orange street.

Both young people have resided in Glendale for the past two years.
Mr. MacKenzie, whose parents live in Scotland, is employed in the laboratories at the Lasky studios in Hollywood.

News of Wedding

At a wedding ceremony taking place at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, March 24, 1923, in Los Angeles, Miss Lucile Park, daughter of Mrs. Grace Park of 611 North Jackson street, became the bride of Swain Nelson Van Wormer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Van Wormer of 350 West California street. Dr. J. A. Francis, pastor of the First Baptist church of Los Angeles, was the officiant, and the ceremony was witnessed by the parents of the young couple.

A bridal luncheon followed, and Mr. and Mrs. Van Wormer left early in the afternoon for Santa Barbara, where they will spend several days.

For the wedding and luncheon the bride was gowned in pearl gray, with corsage bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Van Wormer was formerly a resident of Omaha, Neb., and has lived in Glendale for two years and a half. Mr. Van Wormer, who came to Glendale from Toledo, Ohio, is at present with the Los Angeles Evening Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Wormer will be at home after April 15, in Foothill Court, 314 1/2 East Stocker street.

Morning Meeting

Members of the Legislative section of the Tuesday Afternoon club are to meet at the club house tomorrow morning. Mrs. Benjamin Holbrook, creator of the section, announces that the meeting will be in the tea room at 11 o'clock.

There will be study and discussion of Assemblyman Fellows' bill for abolishing capital punishment in California.

Coffee and sandwiches will be served at noon for those wishing to remain for the afternoon session of the club.

Second Birthday

Six little girls were guests one after another at the birthday celebration of 415 Lincoln avenue, to celebrate the second birthday of Eileen Carlock.

It was an Easter party and the birthday table was decorated with pink sweet peas, Easter eggs, bunnies and tiny chickens as favors. The birthday cake was white with pink roses and two pink candles.

Enjoying the afternoon with Eileen were Dorothy and Doris Forbes, Grace Root, Helen Pettit, Nellie Jepson and Shirley Anderson.

Home From Visit

Mrs. Charles H. Toll of 415
Kenneth road and Mrs. William P. Thompson returned to their homes Sunday evening after a delightful visit in San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley, where they visited their sons, who are attending the University of California.

While there they stopped at the Hotel Oakland and were extensively entertained at many social functions. Mrs. Toll was the special guest of honor of the Oakland Ebell club at several of their functions.

Pre-Easter Meet

In anticipation of Easter it is most fitting that the Tuesday Afternoon club members should have their meeting tomorrow featured by an illustrated lecture on "The Passion Play of Oberammergau" and a group of Easter musical numbers.

Madame Geneva Johnston-Bishop, who witnessed the play in 1909 and 1910, will be the lecturer. Illustrated with slides, Easter music will be given by Ernest Morrison, tenor; Edna Marxmiller, contralto; and Gladys White, soprano. The program has been arranged by Mrs. Freeman McG.
Kelley, chairman of the club programs.

The history of the "Passion Play of Oberammergau" is briefly stated: "In 1633 the village of Oberammergau in Bavaria, was visited by a terrible plague. On its cessation the entire population made a vow to perform the Passion Play of our Saviour every ten years, out of gratitude, and as a means of religious instruction, a vow which has ever since been faithfully observed."

The meeting tomorrow will be the first regular afternoon meeting of the club members in their new home. Preceding the program there will be the half hour of community singing, led by Hugo Kirehofer, and a club meeting.

Mrs. Colin Cable will be in charge of the sale of cooked food before and after the meeting and program.

Birthday Dants

Miss Sarah Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Allen of 352 West Lomita avenue, was the guest of honor Saturday afternoon when her aunt, Mrs. C. H.
McMahon of St. Louis, entertained with a tea dants at the Ambassador hotel in the celebration of her eighteenth birthday anniversary.

There were eighteen invited guests chaperoned by Mrs. C. H.
McMahon, Mrs. E. H. Botsford, both aunts of the honoree, and her mother, Mrs. S. E. Allen.

The table decorations were beautifully carried out in pink and white, pink sweet peas, and lilies being used artistically and dainty rosebud place cards holding tiny pink lighted candles marking the guests' places.

Those present were the Misses Catherine Guthrie, Doris Osmun, Valeria Trimmer, Emma Laura Cooper, Marie Hearnshaw, Dorothy Houston, Ethel Oliver, Cecil Chase, Evelyn Hunt, Eleanor Sawyer, Dorothy Watson, Lois Naudain, Rebecca Hodge, Sarah Chandler, Florence McLaughlin, Josephine Farham, Margaret Brown and the honoree, Sarah Allen.

Lunch Hostesses

Room mothers of the Doran street school were hostesses one day last week at a luncheon for the school faculty and members of the Parent-Teacher Association board.

It was a pre-Easter affair marking the beginning of the Easter vacation. The luncheon table was decorated the luncheon table, with small chocolate Easter nests were the favors at the places.

Faculty members present were Misses Lois Hatch, Julia Collins, Ethel V. Land and Agnes L. Tur-per, and Mesdames Dorothy Hunt Sullivan, Ruth G. Maxon, Mabel Smith, Douglas, Karl D. Van Hise and Lita Grimes. Officers of the P-T-A. honored were Mesdames H. V. Ellis, Claude Johnson, C. L.
Chandler, Senior, H. S. Speck, George Pierce, Leon Sonntag, Mabel Pomeroy, R. O. Hankey, G.
Pulham, Florence Wintersgill, Gretchen Smith, R. M. Nickell, Philip Olson and D. S. McCormick.

Benefit Function

The first evening card party to be held in the new Tuesday Afternoon club house will be given Saturday evening, March 31, for the benefit of the furnishing fund by the Membership, Decoration and Year Book committees.

The chairmen of the various committees are to be in charge of the affair, Mesdames R. W. Meeker, C. C. Plam, and C. W.
Houston. Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and non-section members are also to assist.

There will be tables for bridge, five-hundred, buncos, and Mah Jongg and two instructions for Mah Jongg. The proceeds are to be applied toward the fund for the dishes for the tea room and furniture for the lounge room.

Give Card Party

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson of 463 Myrtle street entertained a group of friends last Friday night at a Five Hundred party.

Purple iris were the floral decorations of the Johnson home for the card party and luncheon following.

First prizes were won by Mr.
and Mrs. E. W. Cizek, while Mrs.
J. D. La Rock and Leroy Bradley won the consolation prizes.
The company included Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cizek, Mr. and Mrs.
J. D. La Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Waller and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson.

Tuesday Night

Glendale's Business and Professional Women's club will hold their regular monthly social meeting tomorrow evening, March 27, in the club rooms.

A covered dish dinner will be served at 6:15 which will be followed by the dollar social. This social will be intensely interesting inasmuch as each member is to tell at this time how she earned her dollar. The one who has earned her dollar in the most unique way will be awarded a prize.

An interesting musical program has also been arranged by Miss Pansy Sheldon.

Easter Shower

Mrs. Owen C. Emery of 627
North Jackson street and Miss Olive Belle Emery were hostesses Saturday afternoon at one of the prettiest social affairs of the midwinter season when they entertained with a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Alvin Brown, whose recent marriage was such a surprise to her friends.

The rooms were very prettily decorated with rose colored carnations, orchid sweet peas and orange blossoms.

Following the arrival of Mrs.
Brown, a bridal party entered the room to the strains of the wedding march. Little Lois Merrikin, in full bridal costume, with veil and orange blossoms, made the daintiest of miniature brides, and Master Jack Emery, in full dress suit, with a white carnation for buttonhole, completing the picture.

After a brief mock ceremony, the bride presented the guest of honor with a beautiful bouquet of orchid sweet peas tied with a large bow of soft tulle, which was her first intimation that she was honored of the affair.

The little bridal couple then carried a large basket around the room presenting the guests with the dainty favors of Easter eggs and tiny rabbits, adorned with bows of tulle. The favor for Mrs.
Brown, however, was more elaborate, being a nest with a small hen and flock of tiny chickens, with an original poem, which was read to the merriment of the guests.

Following the presenting of the favors, the basket was delivered to Mrs. Brown, who was both surprised and delighted with the lovely gifts with which it was filled. The top had been camoouflaged with green grass making a nest for the Easter favors.

Especially pleasing features were readings by the small guests, Little Miss Lois Merrikin giving
"Ma Fixes It"; Little Betty Brown,
"The Great Wide World," and Master Jack Emery, "Auntie" by Edgar Guest.

Games were played, fortunes told, and an Easter egg hunt staged, with a prize for the winner. The eggs were tiniest ones of candy, and the prize was awarded Miss Anna Merrikin, who, in turn, presented it to the guest of honor.

Light refreshments were served.

Invited guests were Miss Emma Laura Cooper, Misses Leone and Eleanor Brice, Misses Agnes and Eunice Caldwell, Miss Virginia Huntley, Miss Anna Merrikin, Miss Mary King of Hollywood, Mrs.
Alvin Brown, Mrs. C. D. Lusby, Mrs.
C. R. Lusby, Mrs. Orpha Brown, Mrs. E. U. Emery, Mrs. Jack Eaton, Mrs. T. H. Menk, Mrs.
Laurie H. Hyde, Mrs. Charles Carroll, Mrs. S. L. Lind, Mrs.
Reuben George, Mrs. O. W. Anderson, Betty Brown, Lois Merrikin.

Take Trip North

Miss Mary Rich of 1022 Boy-ton avenue, and Miss Agnes Tupper of 103 California street, left Sunday afternoon on the Harvard for San Francisco, where they will spend a week with friends. Both Miss Rich and Miss Tupper are teachers in the local grammar schools, and are taking advantage of their spring vacation to visit their friends at the University of California at Berkeley. They will return home on Saturday in order to attend the sunrise Easter services in Forest Lawn on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Webb were the host and hostess at a very enjoyable card party at their home, 712 North Kenwood street, last Wednesday night. Games of Five Hundred were played. Refreshments appropriate to the season were served by the hostess.
The guests were Miss H. Heide, Mr. and Mrs. George Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Sherwood of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Brown and Mrs. O. L. Scott of Los Angeles.

Turkey Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Botsford of 1405 Dorothy drive entertained Sunday night a turkey dinner in honor of Mrs. C. H. McMahon of St. Louis, who is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Allen of 352 West Lomita. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw and daughter, Marie, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Allen and daughter, Sarah, Mrs. C. H. McMahon and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Botsford.

Three Years Old

The third anniversary of the organization of the Mary Jane Gillette tent of the Daughters of Veterans will be celebrated Tuesday night, March 27, at 8 o'clock, with an open meeting in the American Legion hall.

There will be a musical program in charge of Misses Audrey Hall and Leona Hibbert.

Surprise Affair

Charles J. Bruck of 1241 South Orange street, was pleasantly surprised last evening when a number of his intimate friends assembled to celebrate his birthday anniversary. Delicious refreshments, music and a social evening was enjoyed by the twenty-five present. Mr. Bruck was presented with a lovely birthday gift from his friends.

WILL TERMINATE BUDGET HEARING

On Richardson Paves
Way to End Probe

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, March 26.— Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away and the joint hearings of the senate finance and house ways and means committees on the budget will end Tuesday perhaps, a review of the situation is possible.

To Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena goes the credit for having adroitly exploded Will C. Wood's attack on educational appropriations. He brought out the fact that sufficient money for all departments is available, but forced Wood to admit he did not like the way it was distributed by the board of control.

Assemblyman Robert Rosen-shine, who was leading the attack on the Richardson budget, is reported to have refused to further wash the dirty linen in the different departments after Senator Johnson's exposure of the true facts.
The Pasadena solon says, "Wood admitted that the government budget provides all the education needs, but he disagrees with the allocation of the funds. In view of the fact, admitted by Wood, I asked,
"Is it not time to stop this wasteful and is it not desirable for the chief of a department and the executive board to stop this exhibition of soiled political linen in the halls of the legislature?"

The budget hearings have simply resolved themselves into wrangles over distribution of the ample funds provided, in the view of Senator Johnson and the decision of Chairman Chester M.
Klins to call a halt to the hearings the first of the week meetings with the approval of the legislators as well as lobbyists and members of the Fourth Estate.

On behalf of the Industrial Farm Association, an organization of women advocating the Sonoma House for Delinquent Women, Miss Eleanor Miller of Pasadena is presenting the governor and board of control with a memorial seeking an appropriation to rebuild the main building of the plant recently destroyed by fire. She also has a bill for the assembly which provides the same thing for the 200 homeless delinquents.

Senator Johnson has succeeded in getting his bills on reforestation and fire patrol reported favorably out of committee and he predicts their passage. The reforestation measure sets a new example for other states and is commended by such interests as the Walker Brothers, Weyerhaeuser and the state forestry officials as the most advanced piece of legislation of its kind in the United States.

Private timbering interests, the state foresters and the U. S. forestry service will all be brought in to harmonious working conditions under the new fire patrol bill, according to the senator, and getting these interests together will mean a great saving to all concerned in the protection of California's woods.

The universities' struggle for athletes was aired in the senate when consideration of the Creighton constitutional amendment, which prohibits fraternities from pledging high school students came up for vote. Senator H. C.
Nelson of Eureka said that three universities of the state were digging into the high schools for the best athletes, citing the example of the University of California capturing several Long Beach lads through secret orders. He termed it a "vicious practice."

Senator Ed Sample of San Diego and Charles Lyon of Venice defended the college fraternities on the grounds that parents in many instances were members and it was only natural they should want their boys and girls to follow in their footsteps.

Over the week end the finance committees of both houses took a tour of the Mother Lode highway through the most historic and picturesque part of California, leaving the capital Saturday morning by motor car.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons, and, too, other church news:

Mental Attitude Is Keynote to Character

"What a Man Finds when He sees Jesus" was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran Church.
"He finds what he is looking for," replied Dr. H. C. Funk.
"Paul has been characterized as an ugly little Jew by some people and as a saint by others. Lincoln and Roosevelt were looked upon as models of manhood, ideal statesmen by many but they were also maligned by some of their contemporaries."
"Paul's injunction was: 'If there be anything of good report, if there be any virtue, or if there be any praise, think on these things.'"

"Our mental attitude determines the make-up of the man.
The 'knocker' is poisoned with the spirit of can't. It pays to be cheerful for we can do it. The man, who is down in the mouth and who goes around with his shoes run down at the heels, is not going to inspire confidence in others by his slovenly character.
Better 'dollar up' a little and look your best. Press up your clothing and lift up your head if you want to succeed in life."

Spiritual Cleaning Needed, Says Pastor

The recently refinished interior of the Tropico Presbyterian church yesterday morning formed the basis for a sermon on "Cleaning Up On the Inside."

"A shabby home denotes a shabby father and a shiftless mother and unkept children," remarked James F. Winnard.
"The transformation of this auditorium is but typical of that inner cleansing which I urge upon all of you at this communion and Easter season."

"There is abundant occasion for cleaning up on the inside. This world of ours seems to stress more the outward appearance, and like the whitened sepulchres of Judaea, is filled on the inside with all forms of uncleanness and dead men's bones. And, oh, the strength in the nostrils of the church when this thin veneer is broken and the real hidden life becomes known."

"There is a necessity for this cleaning up on the inside if we would be right with God. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

Tells Significance of Entry Into Jerusalem

Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem was the basis of the
Central Christian church.

"The entrance of the King of Kings into a nation, a city or a human heart," remarked Rev. C.
A. Cole, "means today what it meant to Jerusalem: a glad welcome by the innocent and teachable, questions by the curious and skeptical, opposition and indignation by the evil-minded and selfish. Friend, this is thy day of visitation."

"God has need of all that we have—money, lands, eyes, feet, tongues, affections, energies, bawdiness. Yes, bad habits."
"Jesus began his life in poverty, in a borrowed cradle, he sailed in a borrowed boat, rode into Jerusalem on a borrowed ass, soon to hold the passover in a borrowed room, and later to be buried in a borrowed tomb."

"But the story of the triumphal march of Jesus from Bethany to Jerusalem was a type of His victorious march through all the centuries and into all countries."

Special Music at Services on Sunday

Special music at the Central Christian church yesterday included the singing of a solo,
"The Palms," by Harry Marple of 1539 Glenwood road in the morning and a special anthem,
"We Believe," in the evening.
This was sung by the choir, strengthened by a quartet composed of Mr. Marple, Gordon Mize of 1411 North Kenwood street, Mrs. Floyd Mercer of 319 North Jackson street and Mrs. F.
W. Pig of 405 North Maryland avenue. Mrs. M. G. Musser of 600 West Colorado street is the church accompanist.

Render Sacred Music At Church Services

Special solos were sung yesterday at both services of the Congregational church.
Mrs. W. Q. Widdows of 1246 Winchester avenue, soprano, sang
"The Palms" in the morning and in the evening Myron Carman of 363 Salem street, baritone, sang
"The Holy City." Rev. C. M. Calderwood gave an illustrated lecture at the evening service on "Jerusalem, the City of the King."

SERMON SUBJECTS

"The Fatal Crime of Wrong Thinking" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Casa Verdugo Methodist church. In the evening, Rev. J. C.
Livingston's topic was: "Where are the Old Paths?"

Dr. Robert A. Hadden Talks on Resurrection

Dr. Robert A. Hadden preached Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church upon "The Problem of the Resurrection." He prefaced his sermon by reading the great resurrection chapter, I Corinthians 15, and defined his subject as being the resurrection of the believer in Christ. A resume follows:

"Gospel" has a definite meaning: that Christ died for our sin, was buried, and rose again from the dead. This is the gospel of the grace of God. This is what can save a man. His resurrection demonstrated His divinity and authority, and was the best proof fact in history. Paul in this chapter sets into place the last and best testimony, his own.
As having himself last of all seen the resurrected Christ, and he became the greatest of all converts.
Those early Corinthian Christians were skeptical as to general resurrection of the body, and Paul had to instruct and convince them. "If there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen; and if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain." Found together in indissoluble union is Christ's resurrection with our resurrection. If that be not true, then what is there to preach about? The pivotal truth of all truth is this: If He is not risen, then ye are yet in your sins; and furthermore the dead have perished. But now is Christ risen, and become the first fruits of them that sleep."

"But how are the dead raised up?" Paul answered, that whatever seed he sowed, it must die first in order to reap. A mystery, but God declares it, the old body shall be brought back in the new. The dead shall rise, the old bodies changed into the new glorious bodies. Christ rose and took that resurrection body up into heaven. The new body will be a body of power. "Spiritual" body does not at all mean an ethereal, ghost body; it will have form and substance, flesh and bones (but not blood) as had the resurrected Christ, raised in immortality, changed in the twinkling of an eye. This is the truth all our faith hangs upon.

"A sleeping army lay upon the ground and were covered with snow. The reveille sounded; and sprang up, awakened by the trumpet call. That is what we are told will happen soon. In changed bodies we shall know each other, and see Him."
"Therefore, be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord."

Holy Week Presents Drama of Christianity

"Holy Week is holy and glorious, not tragic and fearful," remarked Rev. Philip K. Kemp yesterday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

"It is a glorious fulfillment of a life dedicated from the beginning to the service of God and consequently of His fellow men.
It speaks to us of the confidence and trust in the power of God which shall enable us to build anew the world on the foundation of faith, hope and love. It is a time which calls us to look forward to the time when the life of character, such as Jesus shows to be Godlike, shall enlist men's allegiance."

"We have come to that part of the Christian year which enables us to see the whole drama of the Christian life in miniature. The study of the life of Christ is like an ever-narrowing vista down which we can see the events of His life with the circumstances gradually closing about him.
With Palm Sunday we enter the last period with its clear revelation of the true nature of His Mission. It calls us to consider the true note of Holy Week, which is not found in the applause of the crowd, but in the deep feeling of victory for all who can share His vision of the Kingdom."

Pride in Christianity Is Calderwood's Topic

"Pride in Christianity" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Congregational church.
"The scholar may be proud of his school, the citizen of his country," said Rev. C. M. Calderwood, "but what shall we say of the solemn joy that exalts the soul of one who contemplates the long and glorious history and the influence of human institutions?"

"The twenty centuries tell us the story of nations that have arisen from nothing and become great and then fallen into decay and are now forgotten. During these centuries civilizations have passed from childhood to decrepitude while Christianity has remained eternally young. Starting from Calvary it has moved like a beacon light across the centuries."

"Whatever it has touched it has adorned. It has fallen upon abuses like acid on steel and consumed the slaves' fetters. It has built asylums for children, schools for youth, and homes for the aged and poor. It has added a new beauty to old art and rare culture to old learning."

EASTER SERVICE PLANS COMPLETE

Ceremony Starts as Sun's Rays Light Cross on Mt. McGroarty

Plans for the new Easter service to be inaugurated this year at Mt. McGroarty have been completed. The program of services will be simple and brief. Trum-peters stationed at points of vantage along the skyline drive will sound the morning salute at the first rays of the sun appear over the Verdugos. When the sun touches the cross that has been erected the service will begin with an invocation and song. Father Tonello of the Catholic chapel, Dr.
Stotts of the Tujunga Community church, and Reverend Smith of the Sunland Baptist church will have charge of the devotional services.
The Tujunga Community church choir will lead in the singing.

The services will be followed by a christening ceremony. The hilltop on which the cross has been erected is to be named in honor of John Steven McGroarty, poet and playwright, who makes his home on the sunny slope overlooking Tujunga. Poles have been set and wires strung to light the cross at night by flood lights, making it visible twenty-four hours a day for many miles.

Elaborate preparations have been made for handling the traffic and parking of automobiles. The point may be reached by way of San Fernando and La Crescenta, through Glendale and La Crescenta, or by way of Pasadena and Eagle Rock. The Hillhaven road turns off the state highway at Tujunga and leads up through Oak Glen to the summit, reached in a few minutes.

CANDIDATES FOR COUNCIL INVITED

Urged to Attend Public Meeting Wednesday Evening at Pacific School

Field day—or night—for candidates for the City Council will be conducted at the Pacific Avenue school next Wednesday night, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the meet is composed of Roscoe Belcher of 605 West Colorado and H. W. Bryant of 447 West Colorado.

There are seven candidates for the City Council and two vacancies to be filled. The committee states that all seven candidates are invited to attend Wednesday night's meeting and have something to say.

"We propose to organize and conduct a campaign in behalf of the best material for city councilmen," explained Mr. Belcher.
"We invite the public to attend Wednesday night's meeting. No party or residential lines are drawn—and all of the voters of Glendale are invited to attend and take an active interest in the meeting and municipal affairs."

Presbyterians Hear Program of Music

Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words" was included in yesterday evening's organ recital by Oscar F.
Walton of Los Angeles at the Presbyterian church.

The local Presbyterian quartet sang at both morning and evening service. It is composed of Mrs. Fannie Marple, Retts, of 114 West Park avenue, Miss Elizabeth Mottorn of 211 North Adams street, J. Malcolmson Ruddy of Pasadena and Robert F. Maile of Los Angeles.

Special solos were by Mr.
Ruddy, "The Palms," in the morning and a gospel song by Mrs.
Retts, who is the director of the church music.

Holy Week Services Open in Theatre

Glendale's first observance of Holy Week was the noon time service today in the Glendale theatre. Business people and others crowded the theatre from 12 to 1 o'clock to hear the pre-Easter message given by Rev. Edgar Faye Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian church of Los Angeles.

Organ music was given by Paul Carson and Parke Arnold led in community singing.

At the service tomorrow Rev.
J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of the Temple Baptist church of Los Angeles, will speak.

Whittier Man Charges Holdup in Glendale

A hold-up near the corner of Louise street and Windsor road occurred about 11:40 o'clock Saturday night, according to J. M.
Clifton of Whittier. He reported that he and another man had been seated in a parked automobile and that two clean-shaven young men wearing dark clothes had robbed them. Mr. Clifton asserted that he lost $25 in cash and a check for $32.65 made out to Gus Horton while his friend was relieved of $22 in cash.

FLYER INDORSES AVIATION FIELD

U. S. Birdman Stresses Need of Permanent Emergency Centers

The establishments of municipal airports is endorsed in the following letter from Capt. A. W.
Marshall, commander of the air craft squadron of the Pacific fleet:

"Aviation is, as yet, in its infancy, but is just now about to reach its stride. I expect that it will go forward from now on with leaps and bounds, and that the use of airplanes as a convenience, and perhaps a necessity, will increase tremendously in the near future."

"Already we have noted the increase of flying as the planes become safer and more reliable, and, as we all know, improvements are being made every day.
There is an old saying that necessity knows no law. The city that is not far-sighted enough now, and arranges for and provides adequate airports for the use of planes, will be compelled, at no very distant date, to provide fields at enormous increase in price. I believe that air travel will soon be considered, like the automobile, as a necessity. Unless the field is municipally owned, there is liable to come a time when the money value of the field divided into building lots will cause the owner to so divert it. Thus, the airports will be moved farther out, and, as the city develops, yet still farther, until they cease to be convenient to the city, to the latter's disadvantage."

"Anyone that cannot readily see this either is unfortunate in not knowing or understanding the situation, or perhaps has not looked pointed out to him the vision of the future, or else may be actuated by other and sordid motives."

Praises Glendale
"I wish every city could be as far-sighted as the city of Glendale. I do not say this merely to be complimentary, but because I sincerely believe it."

"The chief value of these fields, and the encouragement of aviation in general that follows, lies in the reserves of flyers, equipment, and factories for making planes, on which the Army and Navy can fall back in time of national emergency. This is the real and lasting asset."

"Aviation has its future before it. It has been estimated that aviation so far has only made about 10 per cent of progress. In other words, 90 per cent still to go. If these figures approximately state the present situation, we can readily see what the conditions will be when these figures are reversed. That is, that we have made 90 per cent progress, and only have 10 per cent to go."

"We wish you success with your airport in the city of Glendale, and I am sure that if the field is maintained and advertised, in time, it will more than pay for itself, and eventually be a great asset to your charming city."

THREE DAY CAMP FOR BOY SCOUTS

Committeeman Turns Country Estate Over to Boys Of Troop No. 2

This morning thirty Glendale Boy Scouts of Troop No. 2 went into camp at "El Bosque del Robles," the beautiful country estate of Benjamin Robison, in La Crescenta.

Mr. Robison is a troop committeeman and former scoutmaster.
H. Benjamin Robison, his son, will be in charge of the boys at the present encampment, which will be for three days and nights.
Monday will be spent playing games and hiking. Tuesday will be the big day, when the long-anticipated game of "Scout Smugglers" will be played. A huge camp-fire will be lighted at night and songs, stunts and stories enjoyed. On Wednesday a hike into the mountains is planned.

The members of Troop No. 2 committee are Charles L. Chandler, Walter H. Packard, Major C. L. Wyman, Francis J. W. Henry and Benjamin Robison, Sr.

Rev. Henry Scheideman, pas-

NET CLOSING ON FLEEING PIUTES

Pursuers Are Determined to Catch Renegades Dead Or Alive

BLUFF, Utah, March 26.— Posse members arriving today from the "front" expressed the belief that the bones of Old Posey and Sanup's Boy, the two uncaptured Piute Indians who one week ago went on the war path, may be bleaching on the rocks of Comb wash.

No chances are being taken, however, by Sheriff Oliver and United States Marshal Ray Ward, who have joined forces. An expedition will be kept in the field until the two fugitives are captured or are known definitely to be dead.

Bit by bit the story of the events of last week which will live as an epic in frontier history are reaching here as exhausted posse members return, showing plainly the heavy strain under which they labored in the field.

Battle of Wits Indian cunning was matched by white experiences. All the tricks known to the red man were employed to fool the pursuing band.

The territory over which the chase ranged beggars description.
It is a succession of rocks, rav-ines and impassable "bad lands." Every inch of this was known by the renegade Utes and they fled into it confident of their ability to evade capture.

When they found that the grim determined band of whites hung to their trail the resorted to the use of white flags in an effort to trap their pursuers into showing their bodies above the rocks.

At least four of the seven captives brought here will be charged with insurance and prosecuted by the United States government.
The fate of the rest of the tribe held at Bluffing will be determined by Indian agents.

The GLENDALE The T. D. & L.

"The Ninety and Nine," now showing at the Glendale Theatre, is a real thriller, full of big scenes and with a highly dramatic plot.

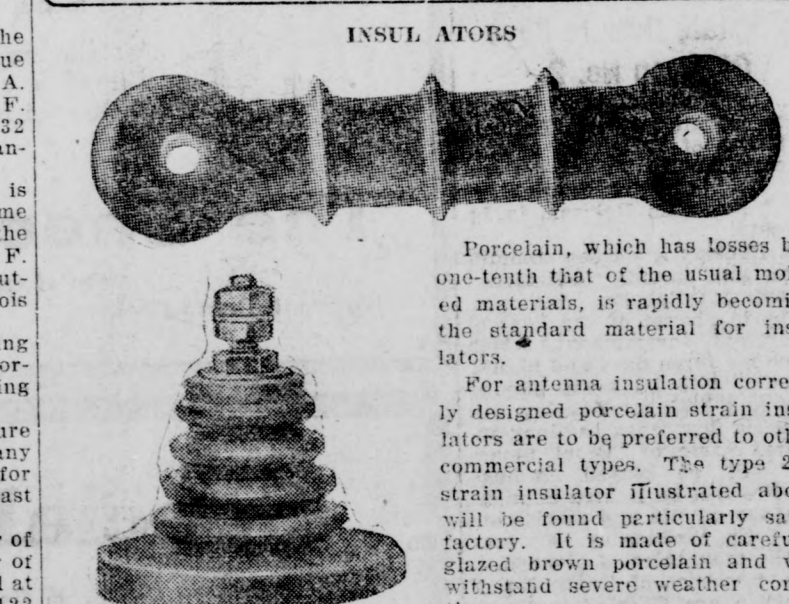

The picture was made by David Smith and is released by Vitaphone. Its chief thrill is the rescue of an entire countryside from the fury of an oncoming forest fire.

To see great stretches of flaming forest, hundreds of men, women and children running frantically to cover; to see the village telegraph office besieged by cursing, praying men who demand a train to be sent to their rescue; to see that train finally dash through the fury of fire, in the nick of time—to see those things, which are to be seen in "The Ninety and Nine," is to get a thrill such as you have not had in years, feels Manager William Howe, of the Glendale Theatre.

The three chief causes of social unrest are (1) envy, (2) envy, and (3) envy.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND NANNIE'S HOOP

Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his hollow stump bungalow one day, wondering how soon it would be spring, when the little birds might begin to sing, when all of a sudden, the bunny rabbit gentleman heard a noise.

"And it doesn't sound like birds singing, either," said Uncle Wiggily with a twinkle of his pink nose.

It wasn't a singing noise at all. It was a beating, blating sort of sound and a voice cried:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, please come and help me get my hoop back!"

Mr. Longears sprang up so quickly that he almost frightened the clock into stopping its ticking, and Uncle Wiggily hopped to the door.

There saw crying Nannie Wagtail, the girl goat.

"What's the matter, Nannie?" asked the bunny rabbit. "and what did you say about your hoop?"

"I want you please to come and help me get my hoop back—my hoop that I roll around," sobbed Nannie.

"Has some one taken your hoop?" asked the rabbit uncle; "some one like the skilful scallery alligator or the Fuzzy Fox?"

"No one like them—it was my brother Billie," said Nannie. "He took my hoop."

"What for?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, he said he and Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel, were going to have a circus, and I just know they'll break my hoop and then I can't roll it any more. Please come and take it away from them!" begged Nannie.

"I will," promised Mr. Longears, and then, putting on his hat, he hopped away with Nannie, the girl goat.

By the duck pond, where the ice was just breaking up, for it was almost spring—but not quite.

"There are Billie and Johnnie over behind those bushes," whispered Nannie. "If we sneak up easy-like we can catch them before they break my hoop."

"Oh, now I see what they are going to do," Nannie answered, "except that Billie said he was going to play circus. I don't see how you can play circus with a hoop."

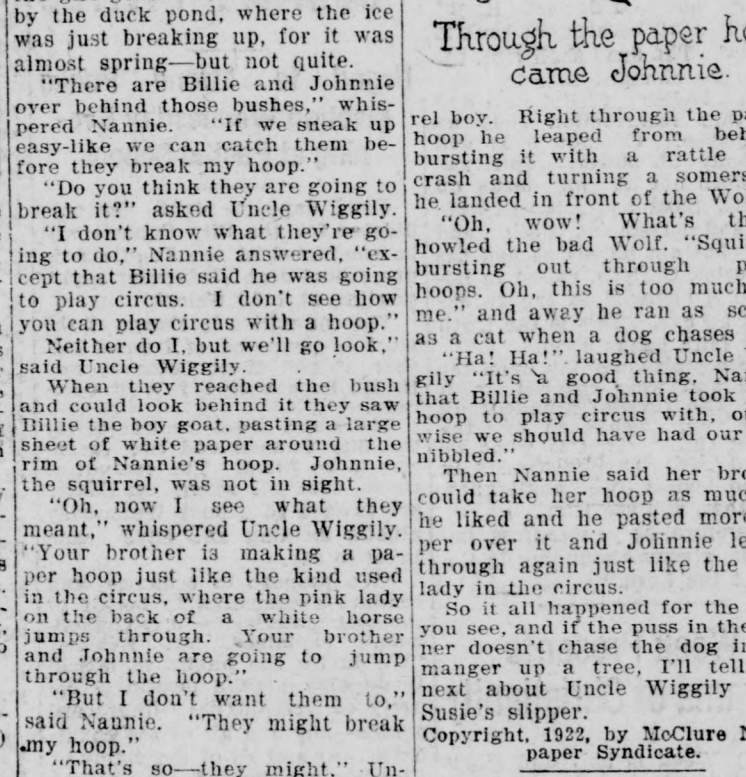

Neither do I, but we'll go look," said Uncle Wiggily.

When they reached the bush and could look behind it they saw Billie the boy goat, pasting a large sheet of white paper around the rim of Nannie's hoop. Johnnie, the squirrel, was not in sight.

"Oh, now I see what they meant," whispered Uncle Wiggily. "Your brother is making a paper hoop just like the kind used in the circus, where the pink lady on the back of a white horse jumps through. Your brother and Johnnie are going to jump through the hoop."

"But I don't want them to," said Nannie. "They might break my hoop."

"That's so—they might," Uncle Wiggily agreed. "Well, I'll

Through the paper hoop came Johnnie.

rel boy. Right through the paper hoop he leaped from behind, bursting it with a rattle and crash and turning a somersault he landed in front of the Wolf.

"Oh, wow! What's this?" howled the bad Wolf. "Squirrels bursting out through paper hoops. Oh, this is too much for me," and away he ran as scared as a cat when a dog chases it.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "It's a good thing, Nannie, that Billie and Johnnie took your hoop to play circus with, otherwise we should have had our ears nibbled."

Then Nannie said her brother could take her hoop as much as he liked and he pasted more paper over it and Johnnie leaped through again just like the pink lady in the circus.

So it all happened for the best, you see, and if the puss in the corner doesn't chase the dog in the manger up a tree, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Susie's slipper.

Filling His Place

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

The two hours after dinner are those which make the Faculty Club worth while. A small group of us lingered in the library, where the only light was that which came from the grate fire. The comfort of a pipe, proscribed on the campus, relaxation from hours of classwork, and scraps of idle conversation held us together that night longer than usual. Perhaps it was Needham, who spoke a bit enviously of Carnarvon's discovery of the tomb of King Tutankhamen.

"A hunter, yachtsman and adventurer," Needham mused, "does what the best of us could not do. The archaeologists of the world have searched for the grave and this man walks into it." Needham sighed. "I would give my right arm to have been he."

We kept Needham busy telling of the throne, the footstool, the canes and the jewels which had been found and of the manner in which the grave had been hidden. Followed a period of wondering silence, each man building a story of the mighty Pharaoh, who had taken something of his splendor to the grave where it had defied robbers and archaeologists for more than 3,000 years. When Needham spoke again it was in a hushed voice.

"It brings back Forbes," he said. "Don't suppose any of you knew Forbes?" We were silent, waiting for the story. "Forbes was always a queer one, a dreamer, one of those men who seem always to be living in another world. I knew him better than any of the others, for he was an instructor in my department. His particular interest was Egyptology, upon which subject he possessed an uncanny knowledge. I mean by that he seemed to stumble upon odd facts which he could not have found in any of the books at his disposal, and for which he was able to quote me authority. On the few occasions I took pains to run them down I found he was right. That's why I refer to them as facts."

"Toward the end of one term Forbes was ready to quit. I never saw a man so nervous. Suddenly he pulled himself together and, peculiarly, started working on an entirely new line.

"I am making a sort of medal," he explained, "trying my hand at art." And he showed me what it was—a disc of copper upon which he was fashioning a queer design.

"What is it?" I asked him, and as I remember it now he seemed for a moment anxious to tell.

YOU'LL BE OLD SOME DAY

"Father is quite a care to me," a woman I know said to me the other day, in regard to her father, who lives with her. "He simply won't take proper care of himself. I have to keep after him all the time to see that he exercises enough, and I have to be very strict about his diet. The doctor says it will certainly shorten his life if I let him eat the way he likes to."

Her father is 75. Her mother, to whom he was devoted, has been dead three years. He is very lonely without her. Because of lameness he cannot get out a great deal, because of trouble with his eyes he cannot read much.

Doubtless his daughter feels that she is doing the greatest possible kindness in being strict with him in order to prolong his life. But is she?

I have my doubts.

Father's Training
She is a very efficient woman. She is exceedingly conscientious about training her children, and evidently regards her father as needing the same kind of attention, since he is not far from his second childhood.

Second childhood is a term that leads many people astray in their attitude toward old age.

I think it is really too bad it was ever invented, since it confirms the willingness many middle-aged people have to guide and direct the old in the way they should go.

They forget that, while the old may have the bodily weakness and perhaps some of the mental inconsequence of a child, they haven't childhood's most distinctive characteristic—its plasticity.

As the twig is bent so the tree is inclined. But if you try to bend the tree you are apt to break it.

You Cannot Train Them

There is no use trying to train old people. It can't be done. You will simply wear yourself out and make them unhappy if you try it. Even if you are doing it for their own good it isn't necessarily worth while.

"Indeed it is a questionable kindness to deprive old people of all freedom of action, even if following their own inclinations occasionally has disastrous effects," says the American Red Cross Text Book on Home Nursing. "Few persons would wish to prolong their lives if long life involved being thwarted in every desire, and sometimes real kindness consists in allowing old people to do certain things that are not good for them."

The text book goes on to say that old people's desire for warmth, which young people are apt to think is just a notion, is an inevitable part of their condition. They should be kept just as warm as they want to be, but the room should also be well ventilated.

Give Them Their Own Way

To thus give them plenty of warmth and allow them, as far as possible, their own way is the most you can do for old folks—

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories

"Fish makes brains. I (or he or she) ought to eat a whale." We all have made this remark, probably, some time during our youthful career, and considered it witty, haven't we? The idea that fish food was a good brain food probably arose from the fact that fish contain phosphorus and phosphorus is necessary for the nerve tissue. However, there is no scientific support for the belief that fish are any better brain food than any other food.

Sea-fish have a goodly content of iodine in them, iodine is necessary for the proper functioning of the thyroid gland, and the proper functioning of the thyroid is necessary for the proper functioning of all our organs, including the brain. Hence, for sea-fish at least, maybe the old idea that fish is good brain food is not so far-fetched. However, if you are a vegetarian and do not eat flesh foods there are many vegetables which also contain appreciable amounts of iodine.

Let me review some of the points that I have given in previous papers. We know this, that iodine is necessary for the proper functioning of the thyroid gland. There are three general conditions due to a disturbance of the thyroid gland—

First: Hypothyroidism (hypothyroid) associated with shrinking of the glands and diminished functional activities. In children this is usually congenital and is known as cretinism. It produces dwarfed bodies and dwarfed minds. In adults it is known as myxedema and among other disturbances produces greatly obese bodies and stupifies the intelligence.

Second: Hyperthyroidism (hyper-over) associated with enlargement of the gland and increased functional activity. This is known as exophthalmic goiter or Graves' or Basedow's disease. This produces grave systemic disturbances.

Third: Simple goiter. Enlargement of the gland with little or no systemic effects.

In cretinism and myxedema the patients are markedly improved by proper doses of dried sheep's thyroid. Simple goiter, most often seen in pregnancy and in girls at adolescence, is preventable and curable by attention to hygiene and small doses of iodine once a week throughout the year. Dr. Kimball advises ten milligrams of iodine in the form of an organic iodid put up in chocolate tablets. Simple goiters are brought about by lack of iodine in the diet; so, in addition to the medication (which should be supervised by a competent physician) the daily diet should contain foods which have an appreciable amount of iodine in them.

These foods are lettuce, beets, turnips, green peas, radishes and tomatoes. Carrots, parsley and potatoes do not contain so much iodine as the others listed, but still have some.

Kellogg thinks that concentrated extracts prepared from a combination of several vegetables might be of value. You can make an extract by chopping fine a kettle full of several of these vegetables adding water and boiling for two or three hours until reduced to a pulp. Strain off the fluid and take a small cupful every day.

Oatmeal is advised for a cereal. Brose gruel of the Scotch, made of oatmeal stirred into hot water simply until the mixture thickens, might be the best way to take it. While in this way its starch is not all cooked it seems to be non-irritating. This is the way the Scotch take it and they are a notably hardy people. Taken in this form it encourages intestinal activity so is good for constipation.

Every day for two meals it would be wise to have two of the vegetables with a high iodine content. Oatmeal for your cereal. Very little meat or flesh foods—get your protein from eggs, milk and milk products, peas, beans, nuts and whole grain. Very little free fat in the form of butter and oils should be taken, for it has been found by experimentation that excess fat may hinder normal iodine absorption. Codliver oil is an exception; that has considerable iodine and is advised in cases of goiter and malnutritional disorders. Good elimination and other hygienic habits are of course imperative also.

Resume for adolescent youths and pregnant women to prevent and cure simple goiter:

1. Balanced diet—Pay particular attention to getting every day good helpings of food containing iodine. Take the minimum of free fat. (Codliver oil is an exception, if you need it.)

2. Attention to all hygienic habits—exercise, fresh air, good elimination, etc.

3. Iodine medication if you live in a goiter region.

that is the final conclusion of this well-qualified writer.

I wish everyone who has anything to do with the care of the elderly would read that chapter. I wish every young person in a home where there is a grand-father or grandmother might read it.

It is hard enough for any age to sympathize with the problems of another, even when it has memory to help out, as in the case of the middle-aged and the young. But for the young and the middle-aged to sympathize with old age without even memory to help is doubly hard.

Only a sympathetic imagination, a tender heart and the willingness to listen to what those who know have to say is going to keep them from the tragedy of thinking some day, when they, too, are old and feeble, "So, this is the way mother, or father, or grandfather felt. If I had only been kinder."

WEEK'S MENU

Coffee Spinach
Custard Pudding

This week being Holy Week, the menus will be more meatless than usual. Many people like to serve Hot Cross Buns on Good Friday (March 30). Here is my recipe:

Hot Cross buns:—(This recipe makes four dozen buns. If you do not wish that many you may divide the recipe in half.) Put four cups of scalded milk into a large bowl and stir into it one cup of granulated sugar, two teaspoons of salt and eight level tablespoons of butter. Let the milk cool to the luke-warm stage, then add to it two cakes of compressed yeast which have been previously dissolved in one-half cup of luke-warm water. Also add to the milk, slowly, twelve cups of ordinary bread flour, two and one-fourth teaspoons of ground cinnamon, four beaten eggs and one-half cup of dried currants. Cover and set the bowl in a warm place over night to rise. In the morning turn the dough out onto a floured board, pat it down one inch high with your hands, then, using a large biscuit cutter, begin cutting it into discs. Place these discs one-half inch apart in greased meat pans and let rise for about one hour in a warm place. Then brush over the tops of the buns with a mixture of beaten egg and sugar, making a cross on the top of each one with the dull edge of a silver knife, and bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven.

BEAUTY CHATS

HARMFUL DANDRUFF

Does your scalp show even a little dandruff? If so, you should begin to treat it instantly. For even a little dandruff is a menace to the health and beauty of the hair.

There are so many reasons for dandruff that it is almost impossible to discover the cause in any one particular case. You may have been washing the hair too much, you may not have washed it enough, you may be eating too much starch, a common but little known cause of this trouble. You may have been using too strong a soap, or you may not have rinsed the soap sufficiently from the scalp. You may have used the hair brush or comb of somebody who has dandruff and so have caught the germ (men's barber shops are great distributing centres) or you may have been wearing heavy, heating hats too many hours a day.

Here you have all the most ordinary causes. Now for the cure. The best way to fight dandruff is to use oil in great quantities upon the scalp. If the trouble is in its early stages when it makes the hair greasy you may not like this advice. You will probably wash the scalp more frequently than usual in a vain attempt to wash off this ever-increasing amount of oil, but, as you cannot do this, you had better resign yourself at once to the fact that you must go about for a while with an unusually oily head of hair in order to boast a soft and fluffy one in the future.

If you can, buy crude oil, which is thick and dark and use this. If you can't, use olive oil. In any case heat the oil as hot as your scalp can take it, for its heat will open the pores so that more of it will be absorbed. Use the oil generously and rub it in with the greatest thoroughness, using an electric vibrator if you have one, and if you haven't using both hands vigorously. Do not wash out for 12 hours.

Distracted—I will be glad to mail you my formula for a black-head powder upon receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope. Constant Reader—Directions for using the Pilocarpine Tonic are given along with the formula. You use it as you would any other hair tonic. Shake it well and

as to get at the scalp without wasting the tonic.

Bumper Apricot Crop Is Early Prediction

The P. S. McNutt apricot ranch at 1001 Sierra avenue has been blessed this year with a bumper crop, states Miss Etta Suplee, of that address, whose sister is Mrs. P. S. McNutt.

So fine an incoming crop is evident in the green acres of healthy trees that scores of visitors have been coming out to the ranch of late, among them Mrs. Margaret A. Campbell and daughter, Miss Nettie B. Campbell, of 130 North Everett street; Mrs. F. L. Church, of 225 North Orange street; and Mrs. Frieda Peters and Miss Laura Anderson, of 315 West Wilson avenue.

An average one-foot sprig from one of the boughs will contain nearly thirty apricots by actual count, Miss Suplee states.

fried rice cakes or with boiled spaghetti or macaroni, fry a large slice of raw onion in two tablespoons of butter till the butter is slightly browned, then rub in one tablespoon of flour and add two cups of canned tomatoes. Let this mixture boil for five minutes, put it through a sieve, then add three pieces of crisply fried bacon cut into tiny bits, one-half tablespoon of parsley chopped, one green pepper chopped and one-half red pepper or chopped canned pimiento. Boil for five minutes before serving. (The tomato pieces which were eliminated in the straining, and any tomato left in the can, may be used to flavor clear soups.)

then moisten the tips of the fingers with the tonic and massage it into the scalp.

It will not take the curl out of your hair as it is not an oily mixture, but it is advisable not to waste the tonic by unnecessarily dampening the hair, as all tonics are meant for the scalp or the roots of the hair and not for the hair itself. The easy way to accomplish this is to part the hair in many strands so as to get at the scalp without wasting the tonic.

Sydney Watson's Books In Glendale Library

Among the books recently placed on the shelves of the Glendale public library are four by Sydney Watson. The titles are "The Lure of a Soul," "In the Twinkling of an Eye," "Scarlet and Purple," and "The Mark of the Beast." These books have created quite a stir among the reading public in the British Isles as well as in many quarters in this country. Mr. Watson has written a number of other books but in these later works he has far surpassed any of his former efforts. Those who have known or read any of his stories will be glad to know of this opportunity to secure these books from the local library.

DeKalb Co. Citizens Invited to Picnic

All those who ever lived in or are tourists from DeKalb county, Ill., are invited to meet for the tenth annual picnic reunion at Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, all day Saturday, March 31, according to an announcement issued by Mrs. Mabel Allen, secretary of the society. Everyone is requested to bring cups with their lunch. Election of officers will take place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, but the main purpose of the gathering is to have a good time, it is announced.

"A good business deal."
"Syndicate baseball."

"A scandal which will break the Pacific Coast League."
Those and many other similar statements are coming out from baseball fans all over the Pacific Coast Baseball League circuit on the sale of the Seattle Baseball Club.

The whole thing is conceded to be a clever move by those owners opposed to the regime of William McCarthy, the President of the League. Since the league went on record—on the deciding vote of the presiding officer, McCarthy—giving equal territorial rights to Vernon and Los Angeles, the opposition has been out to "get" McCarthy. The purchase of Seattle has broken the tie vote of the league and now leaves the field open with five clubs opposed to the McCarthy policies and three for him, as against the equal vote of four to four which McCarthy was able to overcome with his own vote as the presiding officer.

McCarthy backed by San Francisco, Sacramento, Vernon and Seattle have been opposed to the draft and this same combination voted to give Vernon equal rights in Los Angeles. Now the whole project is or will be reversed when the league next meets, and, incidentally, McGroarty cannot expect for does he expect to again be elected president.

The draft project which McCarthy has fought bitterly will be brought up again and the League in its new formation of a "solid five" votes will go in favor of the draft, which will undoubtedly greatly please the major league owners.

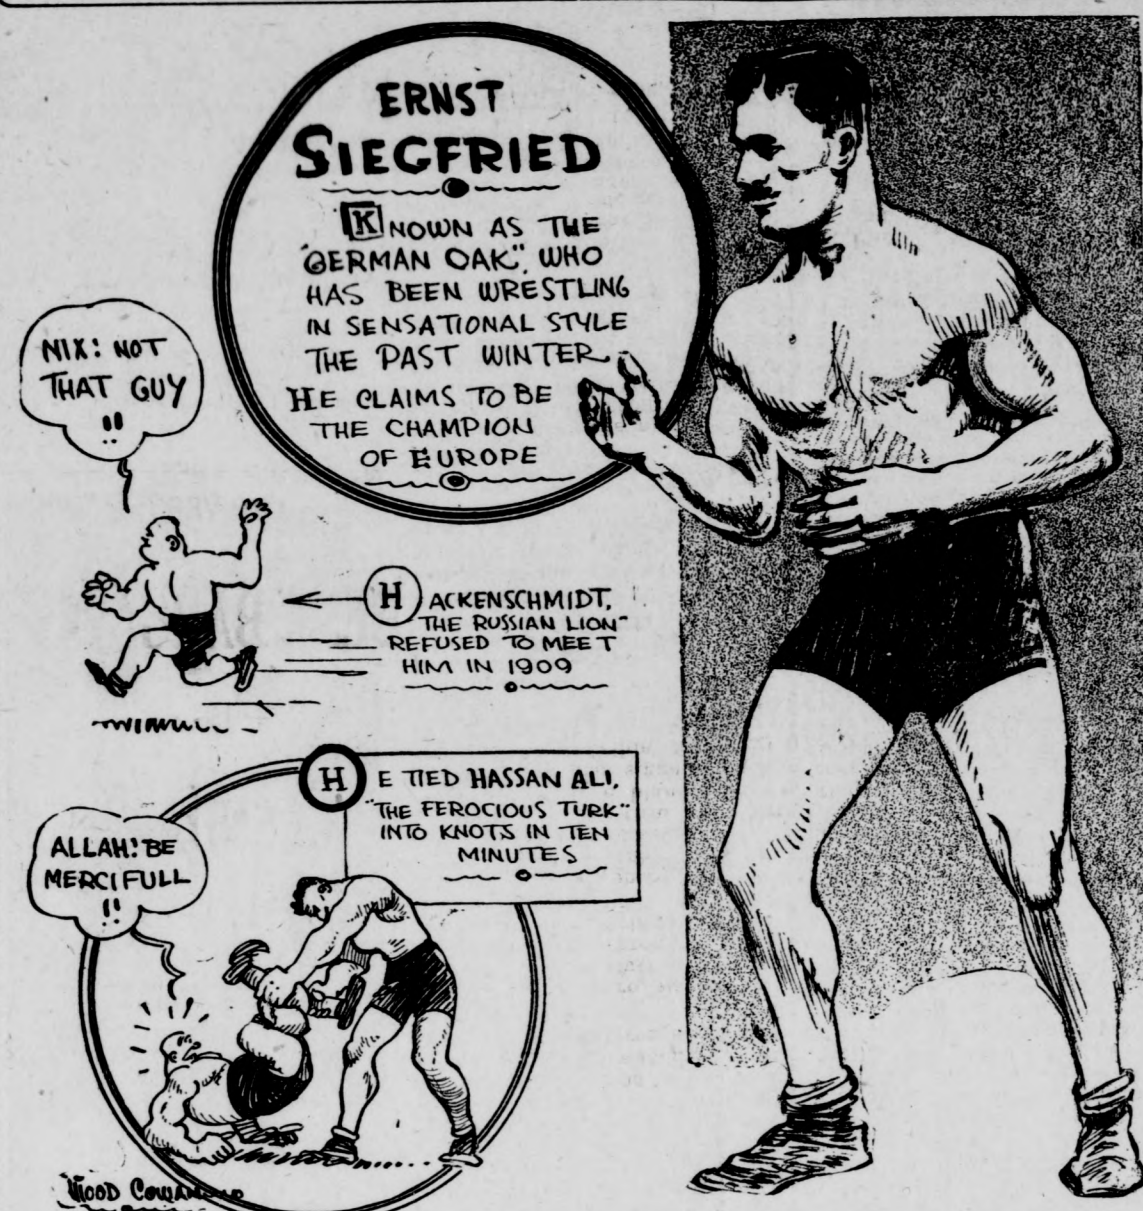

The purchase of Seattle—and rumor has it that it is the money supplied by William Wrigley, owner of the Chicago N. L. team and Los Angeles that turned the trick—has caused a real tempest in the Coast League. Charges are made that it is a personal fight between Cal Ewing, owner of the Oakland club that has started the project. Wrigley was, as owner of Los Angeles, naturally peeved at the equality of rights granted to Vernon—and Vernon is virtually part of Los Angeles just as Harlem is to New York—and it is rumored that under the conditions it was not very hard to swing Wrigley into line in the fight. Just where it will all end no one knows.

That Seattle has been for sale for some time has been public knowledge. Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago A. L. club is said to have had an option on the club but let it lapse. It was then that Ewing and his allied owners saw an opportunity to "freeze out" McCarthy and the opposition of the clubs to the draft etc., by securing the Seattle club by purchase. The ostensible buyers of Seattle are Charlie Lockard, a business associate of Wrigley, Wade Killifer, former manager of the Los Angeles club—owned by Wrigley, John Sullivan, an attorney of Seattle, E. F. White, a Seattle tailor and Stacy Shown, a Seattle jeweler.

As for McCarthy he is saying little and takes the matter philosophically. At that, however, it would not be surprising to find that McCarthy is working out some ideas which may be effective before the next League meeting in November this year.

In The Spotlight Of Sport

By Wood Cowan

Ernst Siegfried, better known as the "German Oak," has been turning in some of the best performances in all his long career. This winter, Harking back to the days of Hackenschmidt, Gotch and the old timers, one finds that Siegfried was counted one of the best men in Europe at that time.

The story goes that the "Russian Lion," as Hackenschmidt is called, had evaded meeting Siegfried, but one night the German found him having at a variety theatre. Gaining admittance to the balcony, he waited until Hackenschmidt appeared, then dropped to the stage and challenged the great Russian to meet him then and there. The stunt broke up the show and "Hack" evaded the issue.

This is the German's second visit to America. In 1910 he raised quite a rumpus among the mat fans by throwing three men in one night at Madison Square Garden, New York City. In his ring career he has been defeated but once—Zbyszko did the trick—and Siegfried has participated in close to 300 bouts. He has defeated such men as Jesse Pederson, from whom he won the European title, Yussif Mahanout, Petroff, the Bulgarian Lurich, Aberg, Carl Saft and nearly every other top-notch across the big pond.

He began wrestling at an early age and at 18 toured Europe with a troupe of matmen. He is a giant in size, being taller than Jess Willard and weighing 245 pounds, known as the catch-as-catch-can same from A to Z, and is a good sportsman.

INDIANS SCALP CULVER VISITORS

Local Squad Takes Game By Score of 5 to 1 in Snappy Manner

The Glendale Indians won over the strong Culver City nine by the clean-cut score of 5 to 1 yesterday afternoon at the Park and San Fernando grounds.

It was a fine, snappy game from first to last, and the large crowd of local fans were well pleased with the quality of ball exhibited by their team.

The outstanding star of the game was Manager Heidler, who did the hurling for the Indians. He struck out fifteen men and allowed but two hits, in addition to clouting a lusty three-base wallop and coming in for three assists.

Earl Harrison, playing the first sack, also comes in for much praise, handling every chance without a miss.

Reid, a new second-sacker for the locals, showed up well, too.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN R. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

With literally hundreds of baseball teams composed of youngsters either in school or employed, turning out baseball material is turning out the various leagues of the country, both major and minor. It is impossible to minimize the value of these winter leagues as incubators of national baseball material, and this can be proved by going into the rosters of practically every league in the United States. The number of Californians will be found to figure to a very material extent.

Elmer Pence, who graduated from the San Francisco sand lots to the Chicago White Sox last year, will play with the Albany club in the Eastern league this year. He is to be given a regular berth and, if he makes good, will revert to the Sox. He played in the Florida state league after receiving a trial with Gleason's aggregation, going to the South Atlantic league when he proved too fast for the former circuit.

Mark Koenig, another product of the winter league idea, who played with a team representing a biscuit making concern has been recalled by St. Paul from St. Joseph. Although he is an infielder, Koenig will try out for a pitching job with the saints. In the winter loop he showed the makings of a moundman.

A loss to California winter baseball, but a considerable gain to Memphis, is the acquisition of Ben Kelly, a husky youngster who showed promising capabilities on the diamond. He made a fine record as a pitcher and his friends predict that he will have a steady job with the Southern league club. This youngster only lost two games during last winter.

Of the industrial teams in the winter league few players are better than Jimmy Welsh, who has captivated the eye of Harry Wolverton who is guiding the destinies of the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast league. He played in the outfield and was one of the leading batters of the league. Wolverton is trying him out at first base.

Pete Ritchie is another San Francisco boy developed by winter baseball that Wolverton has grabbed and it looks to be about an even bet that this boy will be carried permanently on the Seattle payroll for the season of 1923.

Sarland, a midwinter leaguer made good last season with the Salina club of the Southwestern league, and will pitch again for that organization. With another good year there he ought to be in line to graduate into loftier company. Another youngster plucked by the same league from the winter players is "Oaks" O'Connor, who will be playing his second season.

These are just a few names that come to mind, but there are scores of boys who are gaining experience in professional baseball who might never have been heard of had they not attracted attention in winter baseball. Scouts and managers keep a hawk like eye on the playing of these hundreds of youngsters, and it has proven profitable.

BASEBALL CLUBS STAGING FIGHTS

Yankee-Giant Rivalry Leads To Reduction in Gate Receipts, Claim

NEW YORK, March 26.—With the two New York baseball clubs engaged in a polite form of business throat-cutting in the promotion of boxing bouts at their respective fields, it will be interesting to note the effect on baseball in general and the 14 other major league clubs in particular. The Willard-Johnson bout, for example, with Luis Firpo on the same program, is scheduled for the afternoon of May 12 at the Yankees' stadium.

Just how many customers will the Giants and Pirates attract to the Polo grounds across the river on the same afternoon? The turnstiles shall not click that day.

The Giants' reply in the Kilbane-Criqui match for the featherweight championship June 2, a bout they hope to put on in spite of edicts to the contrary by the board of directors. If the affair is held, the Yanks and their major league guests of the day will suffer.

These are only two of an imposing list of championship and semi-championship bouts to be held at the ball parks during the outdoor season. Nearly all of them will be scheduled for Saturday and holiday afternoons, thus striking at the very heart of baseball revenues.

GLENDALE SECOND IN TRACK BATTLE

Local School Makes Good Showing in Contest on Occidental Field

Glendale Union High school Saturday took second place at Occidental Field in both track meets of the Central league.

Covina took first place in the main meet, which was held in the afternoon, by winning 54 1/2 points. Glendale came next with 26 1/2 points; Monrovia secured 23 points; Alhambra 18, South Pasadena 11 and Citrus 10.

Monrovia would have beaten Glendale if Carlyle Bailey had not beaten Ted Shaw, who was considered the fastest runner on the field, in the last lap of the relay. The other three members of the local team were Weldon Hanson, Richard Kelsey and James Purdy.

Local place-takers in this meet were as follows: Frank Serchen, first in the pole vault; Earl Boehm, second in the pole vault; Howard Elliott, third in the pole vault; Carlyle Bailey, second in the four-forty; Weldon Hanson, third in the two-twenty; Richard Kelsey, second in the low hurdles; Howard Elliott, second in the shot put; Clifton Clouse, second in the discus; Lesline Lovelle, fourth in the discus.

Glendale Is Second South Pasadena won the lightweight meet, which was held in the morning, by securing 25 points. Glendale won second place with 17 points, beating Citrus by half a point and Monrovia by only one point. Fifth and sixth places went to Covina and Alhambra.

Masuri Horii, a Japanese student at the local high school, was the star of the meet. He won twelve of Glendale's seventeen points by taking first place in both the shot put and low hurdles and third in the pole vault. He would have gotten first place in the discus throw, with 136 feet to his credit, if the discus had landed in the prescribed circle.

Other local point-makers were Floyd Bercaw, who won fourth in the pole vault; Fred Guerdat and Forrest Krug, who won second and fourth in the high jump. Coach Normal Hayhurst returned home Saturday night well pleased with the showing made by the athletes of Glendale Union High school.

Home Guard Defeats Harrower Ball Team

The clash between the Home Guard and Harrower Laboratory nines, yesterday afternoon at Brookside park, Pasadena, resulted in victory for the former by the ample margin of 19 to 8. As both were local teams, Glendale would have won in either case, so the fans were free to support whom they would.

NEW YORK, March 26.—When they passed around the horseshoes Frankie Genaro, champion flyweight of America, came up with two generous handfuls of air—cheap, highly beneficial and very empty. Frankie is lucky much after the manner of Five Star Hennessy's popularity with the Anti-Saloon League.

1—Genaro met Pancho Villa over a distance of twelve unofficial rounds in Jersey City early last summer and was adjudged the winner on points by newspaper critics.

2—Genaro met Villa at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, upon a subsequent occasion and was declared the winner by a referee and two judges.

3—Villa, not Genaro, was given a shot at Johnny Buff and the flyweight title and proceeded to knock that passe individual upside down.

4—After many months Genaro finally got Villa into the ring with him again, and gained a questionable decision and the title.

5—Tom O'Rourke blandly announces that he has signed Villa to meet Jimmy Wilde for the world's championship at the Polo Grounds.

The answer? Promoters will tell you that Villa is a better drawing card than Genaro, although they cannot prove it by the turnstiles. They click just as merrily for one as the other, but that is neither here, there nor any other place. With Wilde and his title as the attraction, either Villa or Genaro would fill the Polo Grounds like a stuffed olive.

Therefore, why this evidence of discrimination? It is above and beyond our limited resources. So also is the fact that Genaro was suspended in the state of New Jersey because he did not live up to a contract with an organization which failed to prove its responsibility.

Not to mention the fact that he was reinstated for the last Villa affair only on consideration that he would donate $3000 of his share of the purse to the organization in question to reimburse it for expenses it is said to have incurred in trying to promote Genaro's appearance, we might be able to explain why a club which has yet to hold a bout anywhere should be reimbursed for expenses, but the fact that these amounted to a round $3000 defies our noblest efforts.

One might say, of course, that Frankie Genaro may congratulate oratory boys, stated that with the score 2 to 2 in the sixth, things were looking pretty good—when suddenly the merry-go-round started. When they tightened up in the eighth, it was too late. Lloyd White twirled for the Guards, while Bud Smith occupied the mound for the opposition.

himself on the fact that he is champion. He may also congratulate himself upon the fact that he happens to be alive.

RED TEAM'S WORK SATISFIES MORAN

Regulars and Recruits Show Good Form in Early Practice Games

ORLANDO, Fla., March 26.—

The Reds have been in training now for a trifle more than two weeks and the team is fully coming up to the expectations of Manager Pat Moran, who is more than satisfied with the way in which the players are taking hold of their work. The entire outfit is here with the exception of Captain Jake Daubert, who is ill with pneumonia at his home in Pennsylvania and will not be able to come south.

In fact, it is doubtful whether Jake will be in condition to join the club before the opening of the championship season. April 17. His place at first base is being taken by Fonseca, who finished the season at second base last year and led the team in hitting.

The rest of the regulars, including Eddie Roush, are in line and moving along nicely. Sammy Bohne will play second, Babe Pinelli third and Jimmy Caveney shortstop. Jimmy and Babe are clever base runners and the former, who was handicapped by chronic injuries in 1922, is in fine condition and seems to be a greatly improved ball player.

Pitchers Look Good

The outfield will consist of Duncan in left, Harper in center and Burns in right. Roush is no longer considered, as he demands $25,000 for the season and his terms will not be met by the club.

In addition to the three regular outfielders, Moran will carry Rube Bressler and Eddie Hock as utility men.

Four catchers, Wingo, Hargrave, Sandberg and Lutz are likely to remain on the payroll for the season.

The pitching staff looks exceptionally strong with Donohue, Rixey, Couch, Kelek, Lucue and Benton shaping up well. In a game with the Cleveland Indians at Lakeland several days ago Donohue worked five innings and did not allow a hit. Two young right handers, Roberts and Harris, look especially good and are most likely to stick with the team.

SLAIN AUTOISTS ARE IDENTIFIED

Film Producer and Horseman Victims of Collision With S. P. Train

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—Identification was completed today of the body of Louis Burston, Los Angeles film producer, and Thomas T. Strain, noted horseman, who were killed yesterday afternoon when Burston's big auto was run down by a Southern Pacific passenger train near Pomona, Cal. Mrs. Grace A. Farr, a young trained nurse of Los Angeles, who was riding with the two men, is in a critical condition. The bodies of the two men lay unidentified for many hours after the accident.

Burston formerly lived in Brooklyn, N. Y., where he was in the automobile business. He was a member of one of the war boards. He leaves a wife and two children. Strain also leaves a wife and two children living in Portland, Ore.

Burston has produced a number of serial picture plays. Last fall he made a feature picture entitled "Forget Me Not," which attracted considerable attention. He had just completed "Desire," another feature film.

COMMENT That's All

Grape Shipments Growing Wealth Brings On Worry Score Southland Justice Concerning Jail Terms
—By Gil A. Cowan—

SINCE prohibition spread over these United States of ours, the grape shipments from California to eastern points have increased three to four thousand cars yearly, according to a speaker before a Sacramento luncheon club.

Every time he mentioned the subject, "grapes for juice," a laugh went around the table which clearly indicated more than one is aware of the people who circumvent the Volstead and Wright acts. And from the intoxicated people milling around the streets of certain cities the little raisin is responsible.

However, something more than laughs were brought out by the speakers on the subject of deciduous fruits. Approximately $94,000,000 was the value of last year's crop to California in the face of a car shortage.

At the same time the canneries handled more than $120,000,000 in products, one of their representatives claiming it was the largest manufacturing industry in this state. Perhaps he does not consider motion pictures, manufactured in the hills of Hollywood. We'll say that California's canned peaches, for in most cases that's what both industries amount to with a few prunes mixed in.

Varied Architecture Shown in Buildings

To complete the trio of distinctive, national types of architecture, B. W. Sherwood has begun the erection of a two-story, four-flat colonial apartment house at 123 West Cerritos, adjoining two others of equally striking construction. One of these is of the Spanish type, with trimmings of blue and awnings of blue and orange, giving it an air of old Spain. The other is of the English type and with its peaked roof, irregular shingles and soft green coloring, might have been transferred from an English lane to its present location.

The colonial in its simplicity of type will be in decided contrast to the colorfulness of the others.

Traveling Bag Lost From Fender of Auto

A black traveling bag was lost off one of the front fenders of the automobile of Rev. C. A. Cole yesterday afternoon, somewhere between his home at 132 South Kenwood street and the intersection of Central avenue and Colorado street. It was the property of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Williams, who recently came from Garden City, Kan., and were being taken by Mr. and Mrs. Cole to an apartment at 447 Ivy street.

So much for that. We note the suicide of a millionaire. Money is a greater cause for worry than poverty. It is a wonder that no wealthy people do not get off the earth to escape the dragon god of gold which all of us seek with the exception of a few social service and religious workers.

"He profits most who serves best" is a slogan popularized by the Rotary club, but how many people actually believe that in industry and enjoyment of those duties assigned us there lies real contentment. It matters not whether you are mucking in a mine, baking cakes in a home, writing news in Sacramento or elsewhere, you get just what you put into it. And the more you have to do the better you like it, advocates of the eight-hour day to the contrary.

There is this one phase of the situation that must be taken into consideration. It is not conducive to efficiency to do one thing for more than eight hours except in case of emergency. In other words, develop a useful avocation.

Had the aged millionaire of South Pasadena had something to occupy his mind other than the weight of the world brought home to him by his hoarded dollars, it is more than probable he would be alive today to enjoy the sunshine and flowers.

Law and order in Los Angeles county was plentifully panned in the halls of the state senate during the discussion of the three-fourths jury verdict constitutional amendment, fostered by the Los Angeles Crime Commission.

It is clearly evident that other sections of California cannot conceive of justice existing here, yet at the same time we know otherwise. We know that more than justice is being meted out by the courts, but a few notable instances have made it seem impossible for a person with money or power or affiliations to be convicted.

Also, these mistrials have been very expensive. Regardless of the efficiency of the judges, the prosecuting attorney, laws must be sufficient to counteract the condi-

EFFICIENT LIFE SPEAKER'S TOPIC

Dr. Fareed Gives Talk to New Thought Gathering
Here on Sunday

Dr. Fareed spoke Sunday at the New Thought gathering in the Masonic temple on "The Psychology of an Efficient Life." He said in part:

"In the game of life one man gains the heights of his ambition, while another still struggles and grovels in the dirt. What is the reason? What are the fundamentals, the factors of an efficient life?"

"In the great economy of nature there is no waste, because energy not used is wasted. So a life or a business that gives the maximum production with a minimum of waste, that is efficiency in its last analysis."

"First we must trust in God, for back of the great eternal scheme of things is God's plan for man. One must have felt God's presence to know he is immanent. No great life has been able to function without this close contact with the superlative, the absolute. The mind is the connecting link between God and man, and when one has learned to tune in and catch the wave length of the higher self, he has gone a long way on his path to self mastery."

"In demonstrating this power one must use knowledge and application by putting into use, through constant practice, the ability to concentrate. Control of thought, the power to hold a given idea as long as desired, spells efficiency and self mastery in letters so large that he who runs may read."

"Ever and always concentrate on the high goal you seek to attain. Efficiency depends upon efficiency within you. Whether your tions which now make possible criminals' escape. The three-fourths jury will do just that."

Jail sentences for speeding have had a deleterious effect on the morale of the public, it would appear. After doing time they never feel like the virtuous, law-abiding citizen they once considered themselves. They develop a viciousness toward all authority that is regrettable, but human.

Offers Explanation For 'Spirit' Picture

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—Light absorption. That was the terse explanation offered today by Dr. Philo D. Breckstadt, eminent physicist, of the picture taken Friday of the asserted spirit of Mrs. Mary Fairfield McVicker, at her funeral held in the First Spiritualist temple.

Before her death Mrs. McVicker made a request that a photograph be taken of the funeral, fixing the hour at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, believing that the best time for her "spirit impression." In making the picture, as she had requested, C. H. Monroe, a photographer, used a green velvet screen to balance the light near the bier. When the picture was developed three strange impressions were seen on the screen, which were declared by A. H. Hengel, to be the spirit of the deceased woman.

PLAN CAMPING PARTY

A camping party at Manhattan Beach will be enjoyed this week by four Glendale boys including Elvin Richard of 524 West California avenue; George Buttery of 335 Hawthorne street; Francis Moffatt of 410 West Harvard street and John Franklin of 317 West Lexington Drive.

BIRTHS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spear of Banning, Thursday, March 22, 1923, and has been christened Fred, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Spear were formerly residents of Glendale and are well known here. Mrs. Spear's mother is Mrs. George Peck of 129 West Los Feliz Road.

The Spears have two other children, Katherine, aged 8, and Joan, aged 4.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nicolai of 1134 East Elk street last night, Sunday, March 25, 1923, at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

vision be to write a book, to complete an invention, built a house or make character your highest ideal, remember it rests on close contact with your inner self to bring into operation these mighty forces. In developing greater capacity let each day be an improvement over the day before. Then you may be sure as life moves on that you have found efficiency in its last analysis."

Before packing away those Winter Things

BE sure that they are clean—free from soot, grease and dust—

Most of all, be sure you're not packing away tiny, almost invisible moth eggs, which will hatch out soon into destructive little grubs.

Dry cleaning will give you this assurance.

Have us call, tomorrow. We'll have everything back promptly.
